I've been with Caspian One for the past seven years. In that time I've grown our global engagement capabilities (across three continents) within Vendor specific technologies (kdb+, ION etc...) whilst also working with other niche skillsets and business areas. Also, I have spear headed our client expansion. This has subsequently meant I have been the highest billings and sales consultant year on year since 2014.

I believe my successes relates to the level of passion, intensity, drive and motivation I express. Much of this I learned early in my career, through working in sales, with likeminded colleagues, and studying Marketing and Finance at University. However more importantly, it's my ability to create real relationships with everyone I work with (client, candidate, colleague) that I credit highest.

I'm now Caspian One FinTech's Senior Account Manager, and in this role I lead our business development and client engagement activities. I also have the fantastic opportunity to share my experiences with my team, and see them craft rewarding careers.

"I was very pleased to have Benjamin as my agent, securing me that all important interview. To sum Benjamin up, he is: professional, flexible and understanding being service minded at all times, keeping me updated at all stages with good and honest feedback from the client.. I have not found many agents with these properties, so I consider myself lucky to get to work with him. Hopefully we will do business again in the future. I highly recommend Benjamin as an agent."

Exceptional, Thoroughly Qualified Technology Candidates For Leading Financial Institutions - That's It.

Established in 2004, we've spent over a decade providing consultant led recruitment services to the Financial Services and Investment Banking markets. Almost all of our work comes from repeat business and word-of-mouth referrals, due to our proven record for candidate quality and consultants that takes ownership over their individual verticals & technologies.

Clients and candidates alike are tired of dealing with clueless recruiters who don't know the difference between a front and back office developer. Whilst we won't claim the ability to start programming for clients anytime soon, our consultants do have technical knowledge & understanding of their markets, candidate skill sets and client technology requirements.

This has enabled us to gain a reputation in both the UK & North American financial markets for solving client skills shortages and accurately sourcing candidates - even when hiring for niche and Senior positions.

We know the challenges the industry presents and can help you face these head on, whether it's to progress your career or to find elusive new hires and skills for your organisation to help increase market share.

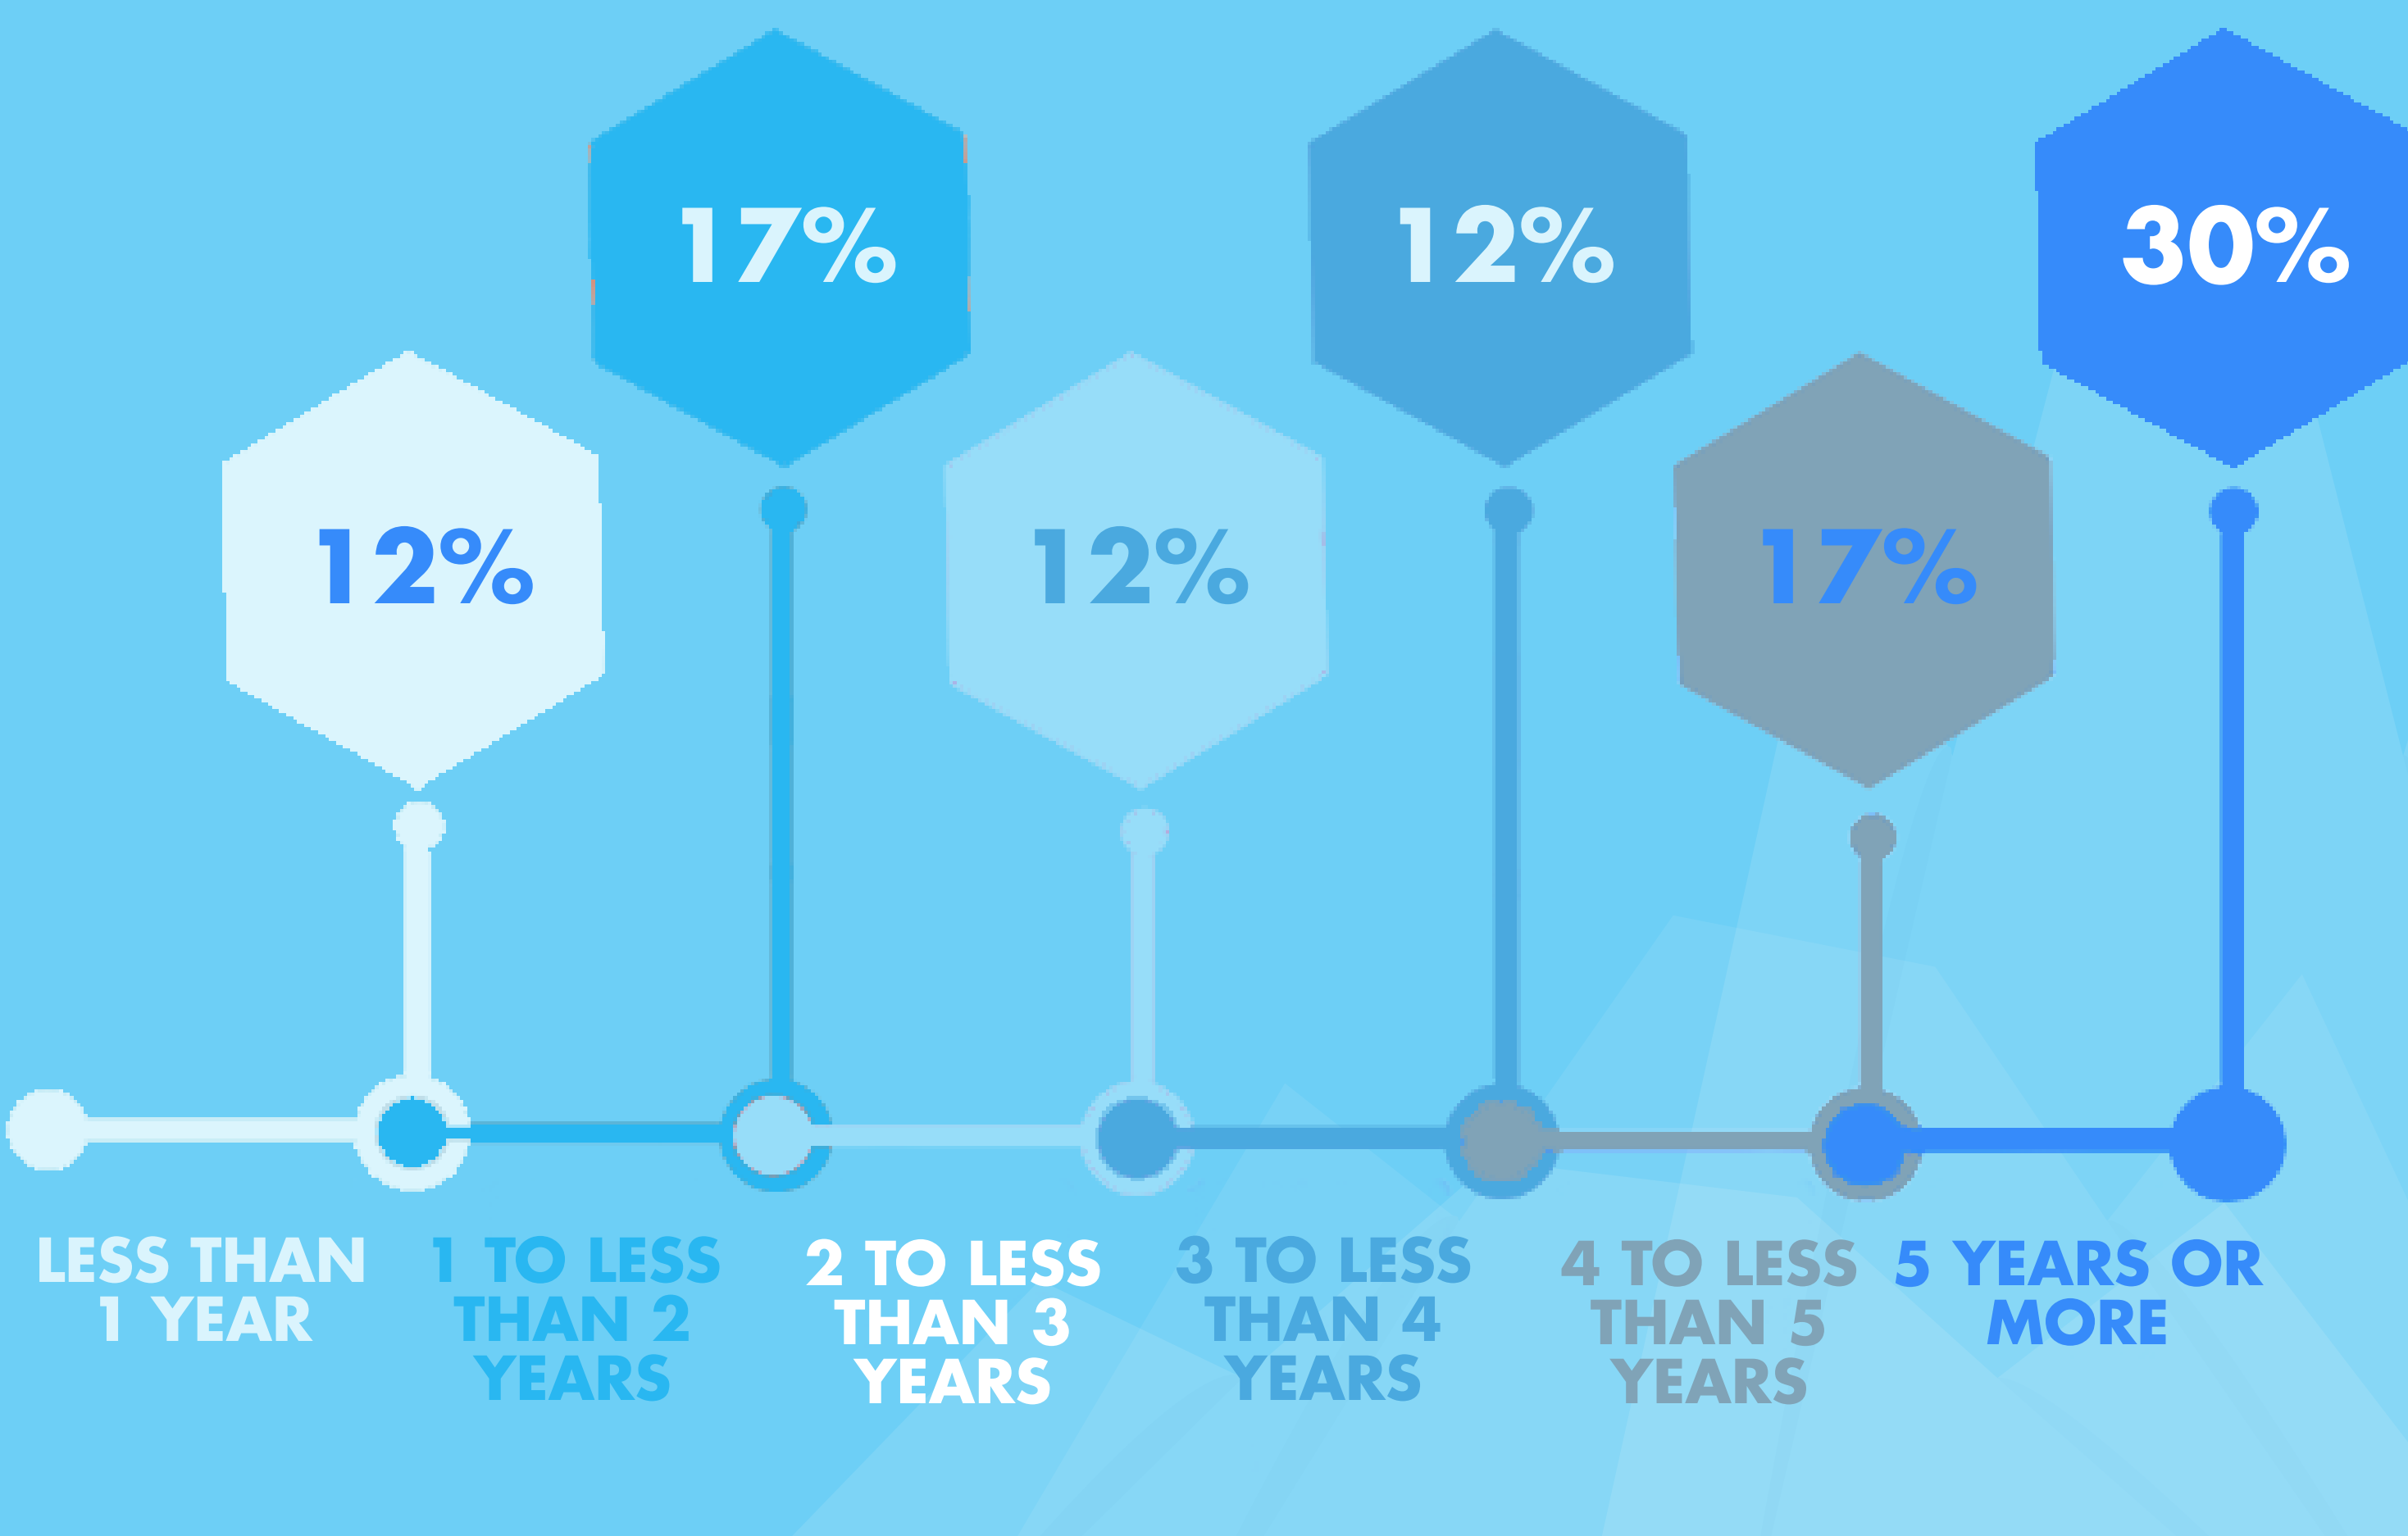

Why Clients Recommend Us

- Extensive Industry Knowledge
- Friendly, Consultative & Professional Approach
- Proven Track Record
- Comprehensive Network
- Quality, Accurately Matched Candidates
- Skilled At Hiring For Difficult Roles
